Executive Director's Desk

Leigh Rovegno

Dear Members and Friends of the Nature Center,

We hope your holidays have been both healthy and happy. As we move into a new year, we have an opportunity to reflect on the year that has passed together.

We can all agree that 2020 was most certainly a year like no other. It showed us that we are just as much a part of nature as are the plants, animals, oceans, mountains, birds, and insects. That we, too, are vulnerable to disease, to a changing climate, and changes in social structures. And that as humans, we are able to persevere when we join together.

Audubon Community Nature Center's vision is that every child within the local community has a real and healthy connection to nature. We recognize that we have some work to do if we want that vision to become a reality. Yet we also recognize that including all lives, both human and non-human, is essential to our success.

The future of Audubon Community Nature Center is dependent on maintaining and expanding its diversity of programs, sources of income, and people. After all, the true sign of a healthy ecosystem is a high level of biodiversity, and it also holds true for us both as individuals, and as a community.

How can we broaden our reach to include more voices and perspectives? What can we do to make sure that the community knows that we are open and welcoming to all? How can we use the legacy of 2020 to ensure that every community member believes in the healing power of nature, that we welcome them to join our nature family, and that together we are stronger?

These are just a few of the questions that we intend to address in the coming year. The answers may not come to us immediately, but the first step is being willing to ask. From you: our members and nature family, we ask for your voices and ideas.

Thank you for being an Audubon Community Nature Center member, and for sharing this journey with us. We look forward to the year ahead, and we hope that you'll continue to join us as we strive towards our vision that every child within our community has a real and healthy connection to nature. After all, that connection begins with all of us working together.

Take care, and be well.

I look forward to seeing you all at the Nature Center again soon.

Leigh J. Rovegno

ACNC Through the Years

Audubon has changed a lot since it was founded in 1957 around a kitchen table. The following excerpts are from past January – February newsletters.

1961

“The Snowy Owl has been reported in Summerdale. There is also one seen in Kiantone on... Frissell Road.”

1971

“January meeting on the 8th with Archie Richardson showing slides of birds banded and reporting on banding activities there.”

1981

“Before knowledge must come awareness. Each and every one of us can help others become aware of the natural wonders that surround us and the problems that our environment faces.” — Jim Yaich

1991

“Jim Yaich recently celebrated 15 years as the Naturalist-Director of the Jamestown Audubon Society.”

2001

“The Nature Art Festival Committee is pleased to report that 5,200 people attended...”

2011

“The Secret Gardens Tour is back! Mark June 18 on your calendar.”

Addressing Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion at Audubon Community Nature Center

Leigh Rovegno, Executive Director

In order to fulfill our mission of connecting (ALL) people with nature, ACNC has recently convened a committee to identify and discuss issues related to Diversity, Equality, and Inclusion (DEI) within the organization. Upon reviewing the results from a recent DEI survey completed in August of 2020 by both ACNC Board and staff members, the committee believes that it is important to continue this process by further educating ourselves on DEI related topics through a course of study and reflection.

The ACNC DEI Committee has decided to embark on a 21-Week Racial Equity Habit Building Challenge which will include one reading and discussion per week beginning in January 2021. The goal of this challenge is to become better informed both personally and professionally about issues related to privilege, systemic racism, and inequities that have a negative impact on our communities.

We encourage ACNC members to consider participating in this challenge along-side ACNC's board and staff.

For more information on the 21 Day (Week) Challenge, please visit: americanbar.org/groups/labor\_law/membership/equal\_opportunity

Dreaming Big

Kim Turner, Education Assistant

For those of you who told us to dream bigger, thank you! We are truly dreaming and planning big this year. With the support of generous donors, by the time you read this newsletter, we hope that construction has started on the Pamela A. Westrom Wildlife Habitat.

This project consists of an animal care room that is large enough for behind the scenes tours and three to four animal enclosures. We are building the new habitats near Liberty the Bald Eagle's enclosure to create a corridor of wildlife for visitors to enjoy. We hope that the addition of these animals will enrich the relationship between people and nature by offering a greater diversity of species to connect to.

As the staff lead for Animal Care, I am currently training with live birds of prey, such as hawks and owls, and researching care for these animals in preparation to obtain additional birds that will live in the Pamela A. Westrom Wildlife Habitat.

Stay connect with Audubon for upcoming programming and other ways to support this project.

For more information on this project and the live animals that call Audubon "home," please visit: auduboncnc.org/animalambassadors

Please Note:

For the most accurate information about ACNC programs and events, please visit auduboncnc.org or call (716) 569-2345.

Face coverings are required for all participants ages 3 and up for indoor programs; they are also required for outdoor programs during which participants cannot maintain 6 feet of distance between family groups. Please have a face covering available should situations change. If you are feeling ill, have any symptoms of COVID-19, or have come into contact with a probable or confirmed COVID-19 case, please stay home. If you have traveled to/from a non-contiguous state or to/from a CDC Level 2 or 3 Travel Notice Country please complete the required quarantine before attending programs or visiting ACNC.

Please be aware that if Audubon discovers that a program instructor or participant tests positive or is considered presumptive positive for COVID-19, they may use registration information to assist with contact tracing.

Nature Notes — Bird Irruptions

Jeff Tome

Even the birds had problems in 2020, but it's the kind of problem that people who feed birds are loving. Birds that are rarely seen in the United States are flying south in record numbers. People with birdfeeders are seeing some interesting birds show up that they haven't seen in years.

The first to arrive were the Pine Siskins. These tiny birds look like striped, olive-colored goldfinches and swarmed my thistle feeder a couple of weeks ago. These birds prefer to eat Black Nyjer seed. The tiny, oily seeds are often called thistle seeds, but are no relation to thistle. Finches of all sorts love these seeds.

The big news was the appearance of Evening Grosbeaks, which look either like a goldfinch on steroids or a mutant cross between a cardinal and a goldfinch. These birds are migrating in the largest number in over twenty years. These sporadic migrations are called irruptions.

Many other birds are on the move this year, including Purple Finches, redpolls, and crossbills. No one knows where, when, or if they will show up, but a watchful eye on a full feeder is more likely to see one or more.

Calling all Cooks — Audubon Heritage Cookbook

Tina Preston, Administrative Assistant and Volunteer Coordinator

Do you miss the days of Audubon potlucks where you could taste-test everyone's favorite family recipes? So do we! We love sharing food with our Audubon family and friends, and we are looking forward to being able to do that again in the future.

Until then, we are asking all Audubon cooks to consider sharing your favorite recipes with us to be used in an 'Audubon Heritage Cookbook'. Recipes included in the cookbook will celebrate the 'spirit of Audubon' by being seasonal, featuring locally-available foods, or celebrating your family's heritage. Each recipe has its own story, and we love to hear that too!

To submit recipes for consideration, please email Tina Preston at tpreston@auduboncnc.org.

Support through Shopping at Bookshop.org

Are you a nature lover and avid reader? Audubon is excited to provide a range of books in the Blue Heron Gift Shop and have a presence on Bookshop.org to cater to their book reading audience. With the gift shop being limited in size, Bookshop.org offers a wider selection of books on every topic, and any book you purchase through them helps support ACNC.

Shop from ACNC's Bookshop page at bookshop.org/shop/auduboncommunitynaturecenter and 10% of your purchase will be donated to Audubon.

Help ACNC continue to grow by purchasing books in the Blue Heron Gift Shop or at bookshop.org.

Donation Corrections

Whoops! There was an error in the November – December newsletter. A couple of donations were listed incorrectly. Every donation is valued and important. We apologize for the error.

Your Membership Matters More Than Ever

Tina Preston, Administrative Assistant and Volunteer Coordinator

There is no question that 2020 was a very strange year for everyone as we learned to face the many challenges during these unprecedented times. Throughout the pandemic, Audubon has reinvented the programs, events, and activities they offer in order to continue providing a safe space for people learn about and connect to nature.

Now, more than ever, your membership is essential to Audubon Community Nature Center's existence. By being a Nature Center member, you get access to programs, discounts, early-bird registration, and exclusive events at a place that you have grown to love. Additionally, your membership provides necessary financial support that goes directly towards making the programs, people, animal care, and grounds upkeep possible. Through your membership, you show a commitment to ACNC's vision in which every child within the local community has a real and healthy connection to nature.

Audubon is a wonderful place for friends and family to share experiences in nature.

Health officials across the globe agree that one of the best things that you can do for your mental, physical, and emotional health is to get outside. Audubon is consistently busy, with visitors looking to explore the outdoors, be active, and continue to connect with the natural world. We are grateful to our members for the support they provide which allows us to provide a place for the community to find comfort and enjoyment now and into the future.

Thank you.

For more information about membership levels, benefits, and gift memberships visit: Auduboncnc.org/memberships or call the Nature Center at (716) 569-2345.

Birdseed

Conewango Blend is a specially-mixed seed that was created by a team of local birders to attract many different birds. It is rich with black oil sunflower seeds and also includes canary seed, millet, corn, safflower seed, and sunflower hearts. The goal is to attract many different birds without wasting seed. This mix is available in the Blue Heron Gift Shop at ACNC.

You can also find Conewango Blend at:

A New Way to Shop Local: ShopLocalCHQ.com

Are you looking to support local businesses without having to make multiple in-person trips? ShopLocalCHQ.com provides an online hub for many local stores including Audubon Community Nature Center's Blue Heron Gift Shop. Supported by the Chautauqua County Chamber of Commerce, this website allows customers to shop for favorite Audubon products, such as the famous Conewango Birdseed Blend. Most items are available to ship, with some available for pick-up only at the Nature Center. 100% of sales made through ShopLocalCHQ.org go directly to the local businesses who participate.

Blue Heron Legacy Society

Audubon Community Nature Center strives to ensure that every child from the local community has a real and healthy connection to nature. You can be a part of this vision, make it stronger, and leave a lasting legacy for the future.

Audubon's vision becomes stronger through long-term commitments made by Nature Center Members, donors, and friends; those who wish their legacies to be a part of a thriving, educational, nature-based organization. Commitments can include giving gifts of stocks, donations made from donor advised funds, bequests, and IRA charitable giving.

*What will your legacy be?
How will you leave your mark on the world?*
