Executive Director's Desk

Leigh Rovegno

Dear Nature Center Members and Friends,

Spring has sprung, and the world is bursting with life! We are getting ready to be knee-deep in the wonderful chaos of May and June, which are the busiest (and most joyful!) months here at the Nature Center.

During these months, spring Discovery Walks, led by our volunteers and staff, give kids the chance to get their hands dirty, explore the ponds, wander the trails, and connect directly with the natural world.

Audubon partners with schools from across Chautauqua, Cattaraugus, and Warren counties to provide these opportunities for exploration and hands-on learning. Discovery Walks are just one area of programming that Audubon provides each year.

Did you know that Audubon Nature Educators deliver over 1,000 programs annually? Audubon's programs are designed for a variety of audiences from curious little ones to lifelong learners. We believe that learning about nature is something that everyone should experience, and that's what makes Audubon such a special place.

Whether it's volunteering, strolling our trails, or participating in a program, we're building a community that values learning, growing, and connecting with nature. You are a vital part of that community.

This spring, we invite you to support Audubon's mission of connecting people to nature by participating in one or both of the upcoming online giving events: Warren Gives on Wednesday, May 14 and Give Big CHQ on Thursday, June 12.

Warren Gives, hosted by the Community Foundation of Warren County, brings community members together in support of the many nonprofit organizations that serve Warren County. Individual donations are generously matched by sponsors up to $75,000. This means your donation dollars can make even more of an impact!

Give Big CHQ, hosted by the Northern Chautauqua Community Foundation and the Chautauqua Region Community Foundation, is a day dedicated to supporting the more than 100 nonprofits that make Chautauqua County a vibrant place to live.

Your generous donations, big or small, ensure that local nonprofits can continue providing their valuable services to the community. Your dollars go directly towards creating real change, right in your own backyard.

Thank you for your generosity. We couldn't do it without you!

With gratitude,

Leigh J. Rovegno

ACNC Through the Years

ACNC's mission is rooted deeply in conservation and education. See how Audubon members and friends have supported education and conservation efforts throughout the years.

1960

"The Nature Pilgrimage to Allegany State Park, June 17-19 will replace our regular June meeting. The leaders we have secured to lead the walks are the best in their respective fields."

1969

"Is the use of DDT finally on the way out? It would seem so. In a recent issue of the Audubon Leader's Conservation Guide, there were these headlines: Michigan is the First State to Outlaw DDT. Senator Nelson Proposes Federal Ban."

1976

"More than 150 people gathered at the outdoor amphitheater at Burgeson Sanctuary for the ground breaking ceremony of the Roger T. Peterson Nature Interpretive Building ... It is interesting to note that this will be a truly patriotic bicentennial building in that it contains 1776 square feet."

1984

"Four observations of three species tied for Bird of the Month honors: A female Wilson's Phalarope on May 26 ... April 24 observation of the Yellow-headed Blackbird ... a male Summer Tanager ... on May 20."

1994

"A successful fund drive enabled us to complete the million dollar addition to the Roger Tory Peterson Nature Interpretive Building. How fortunate we were to have Dr. Peterson ... in person to dedicate the addition."

2004

"Audubon makes learning fun! The "Wild About Wetlands" exhibit is a learning adventure. The grand opening will be held on June 20."

Audubon Community Nature Center's Board of Directors, Chairs, and Committee Members are volunteers. Thank you to those who contribute time, thought, and energy to help ACNC run smoothly and effectively!

Nature Notes: Spittlebugs

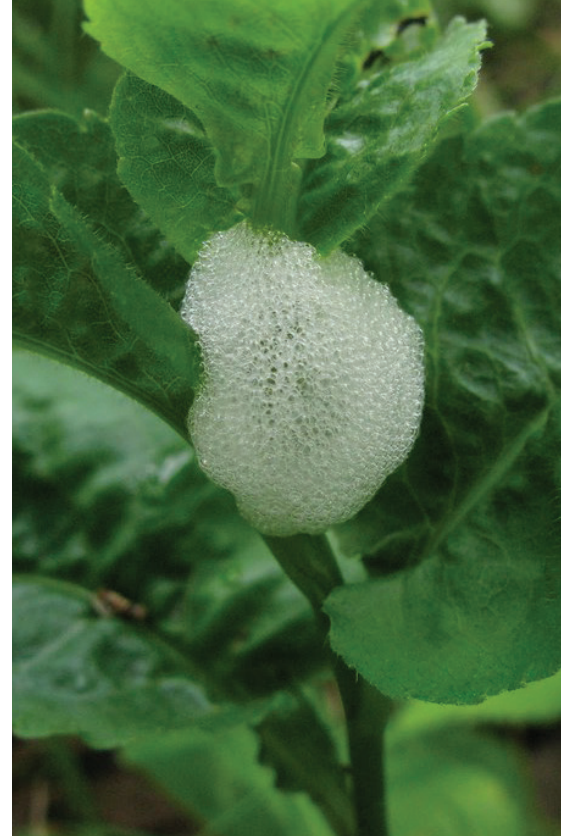

By Emma Roth, Nature Educator, Animal Care Specialist

As the days grow longer and temperatures increase, you may encounter a strange phenomenon along the trails at ACNC. At the base of leaves and clinging to the sides of stems on grasses and shrubs are clusters of bubbles. These bubbles look like clumps of spit and for good reason. They are the homes of spittlebugs. By gently parting the bubbles, you can reveal the creature inside, a tiny green or yellow insect.

Spittlebugs are members of a diverse family of insects including leafhoppers, cicadas, and aphids. The little insect found at the center of the suds is actually the nymph, or juvenile, stage of the insect's life cycle. As the nymphs age, they slowly grow wings and metamorphose into adults.

The spittle itself isn't actually spit. It is excrement made by the insect after drinking plant sap. After extracting sugars from the sap, the extra water is excreted and frothed into a bubbly abode. This spit has two useful functions for the growing nymph – it provides a moist environment, necessary for these creatures to grow, and hides them from the prying eyes of potential predators.

Look for these bubbly apparitions on your next walk, but if you do choose to search for the bug within, remember to be gentle and try to disturb it as little as possible.

Spittlebugs are often found around stems or at the base of a leaf.

Plant Sale

Saturday, May 17, 9:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.

$3.00 per 4-inch pot

$5.00 per 6 – 8-inch pot

$10 per 10-inch pot

Stop by this year's plant sale to pick out some new plants for your garden! There will be a large selection of native plants, as well as annuals, perennial plants, trees, and shrubs. Plants are from local greenhouses and Audubon's gardens.

Pick up some gently used garden equipment, décor, tools, and pots at the 'Garden Treasures' tent. Volunteer Master Gardeners will be on hand to give advice at the advice table.

Audubon will not be accepting plants for trade this year due to the threat of jumping worms, an invasive animal that can decimate local soils. Learn more about them at auduboncnc.org/jumping-worms

Many local nurseries and garden stores donate to this event in order to provide a wide selection.

Thank You, Annual Fund Donors!

Welcome Taylor to the ACNC Team!

ACNC is happy to welcome Seasonal Nature Educator, Taylor Brennan! Taylor traded the bustle of Staten Island for the tranquility of Kiantone in 2019, bringing with her a deep passion for nature and education. With degrees in English Literature and Childhood Education, she's seamlessly blended these interests at ACNC.

Her journey began with discovering hidden pockets of nature in NYC, leading to a love for birdwatching and photography. Now, her contagious enthusiasm inspires children to connect with the natural world.

Join Audubon in making Taylor feel at home and sharing in her enthusiasm for all things wild! The ACNC staff is thrilled to have her on the team!
